VSCP ad hoc Working Group Member Spotlight:

Frank Hardin, Ph.D.
Youth Education Manager
Noble Research Institute, Ardmore, OK

Frank Hardin, Ph.D., serves as Noble Research Institute youth education manager. Headquartered in Ardmore, Oklahoma, Noble Research Institute is an independent nonprofit agricultural research organization dedicated to delivering solutions to great agricultural challenges. Hardin and his team advance Noble's mission by delivering hands-on, agricultural- and science-based educational programs and events to student and teacher audiences. Prior to his current position, he was a postdoctoral fellow at Noble Research Institute, where he worked on reducing lignin content in switchgrass as a forage and biofuel crop. Hardin earned his degrees in cellular biology with an emphasis on molecular and biochemical parasitology from the University of Georgia.

For more information over the Noble Research Institute you can visit their website at <https://www.noble.org/>

*Due to COVID-19, VSCP will be holding virtual events and activities through online platforms until further notice.
